Today I walked into my big brother’s room, and that’s when I saw it: The Armpit of Doom.
I wasn’t expecting The Armpit at all.
I shrieked and fell backward and grabbed for the wall.
The Armpit was smelly. The Armpit was hairy.
The Armpit was truly disgusting and scary.
I wanted to vomit. I wanted to cry.
I wanted to flee from its all-seeing eye.
My skin started crawling with goose bumps and chills.
My brain began screaming to head for the hills.
I tried to escape but I knew I could not.
In horror, I found I was glued to the spot.
“Will somebody help me!?” I started to shout, till fumes overcame me and made me pass out. And that’s why I’m here in this hospital room; it’s all on account of The Armpit of Doom. I’m still feeling shaken. I’m queasy and pale, but lucky I lived and can tell you my tale. So take my advice... If you ever go near your big brother’s room, bring a whole lot of gear: A gas mask and goggles, a helmet and shield, or maybe a space suit that’s perfectly sealed. And then, only then, when you’re fully prepared, step in very slowly and hope you’ll be spared. But, if you’re afraid of the Armpit of Doom, stay far, far away from your big brother’s room.
Please don’t read this poem.
It’s only meant for me.
That’s it. Just move along now.
There’s nothing here to see.

Besides, I’m sure you’d rather just go outside and play.
So put the poem down now and slowly back away.

Hey, why are you still reading?
That isn’t very nice.
I’ve asked you once politely.
Don’t make me ask you twice.
I’m telling you, it’s private.
Do not read one more line.
Hey! That’s one more. Now stop it.
This isn’t yours; it’s mine.

You’re not allowed to read this.
You really have to stop.
If you don’t quit this instant,
I swear I’ll call a cop.

He’ll drag you off in handcuffs.
He’ll lock you up in jail,
and leave you there forever
until you’re old and frail.

Your friends will all forget you.
You won’t be even missed.
Your family, too, will likely forget that you exist.

And all because you read this instead of having fun.
It’s too late now, amigo;
the poem’s nearly done.

There’s only one solution.
Here’s what you’ll have to do:
Tell all your friends and family
you shouldn’t read it too.
My Brother’s Not a Werewolf

My brother’s not a werewolf though it often looks that way. He has to shave his whiskers almost every single day.
His feet are getting furry and his hands are sprouting hair.
His voice is deep and growling
like a grumpy grizzly bear.

He often sleeps throughout the day
and stays up half the night.
And if you saw the way he eats
you’d surely scream in fright.

His clothes are ripped and dirty like the stuff a werewolf wears.
His socks and shirts are shredded and his pants have countless tears.

If you should ever meet him
you’ll discover what I mean.
My brother’s not a werewolf;
he’s just turning seventeen.
My Pet Germs

I have about a billion germs
I keep as tiny pets.
They’re cute and clean and never mean
and give me no regrets.
They spend all day engaged in play
on my skin and hair.
They’re on my clothes, between my toes and in my underwear.

They dance and shout and bounce about.
They run and jump and slide.
My epidermis teems with germs who party on my hide.

I never fret about the pets inside my shirt and socks.
I love them there but wonder where they keep their litter box?
My Parents Sent Me to the Store

My parents sent me to the store
to buy a loaf of bread.
I came home with a puppy
and a parakeet instead.
I came home with a guinea pig, a hamster and a cat, a turtle and a lizard and a friendly little rat.

I also had a monkey and a mongoose and a mouse. Those animals went crazy when I brought them in the house.

They barked and yelped and hissed and chased my family out the door. My parents never let me do the shopping anymore.
